

3 is a well-balanced number often representing a divine trinity in which all things are contained as one, and one is present in all. Sometimes my brothers and dad (the 3 of them) call themselves the next generation in wine, but I think that is really my 3 nieces and nephews: Lucca, Benedetto, and Gabriella. Of course, the Sebastiani women should get some credit too: me, my mom Nancy, and sisters-in-laws, Allison and Katie. "Mia" has 3 letters in it. The town of Sonoma covers less than 3 square miles. Are there 3 monkeys in the barrel to the right? The number 3 represents creative power and gestalt (it's when two things become more than the sum of their parts). My favorite number is 3. The number 7 is good luck, and  $7 \times 3 = 21$ . Everyone knows you must be 21 to drink this stuff, and  $2 + 1 = 3$ . The M in Mia's Playground is really a 3 (but you already knew that).
